Highlighting our member systems and their work in the advancement of trauma-informed principles and practices.

Wednesday June 30 from 2:00 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.
Implementation of Trauma-Informed Practice in the Supreme Court of Texas Children’s Commission
Presented by Jocelyn Fowler

Jocelyn Fowler is a staff attorney at the Supreme Court of Texas for the Permanent Judicial Commission for Children, Youth and Families (Children’s Commission). At the Children’s Commission, Jocelyn leads the Statewide Collaborative on Trauma-Informed Care (SCTIC) and other efforts by the Commission to expand trauma-informed practice and policy in child welfare. Additionally, she provides support for the Commission’s work to address disproportionality in child welfare and advance equitable court experiences for all families. Jocelyn also focuses on strengthening collaborations between the state and Texas’ federally recognized Tribes and providing training on the Indian Child Welfare Act. The SCTIC endeavors to raise awareness about trauma-informed care through training and educational opportunities; lead a statewide collaborative to create a trauma-informed and trauma-responsive child welfare system that better meets the needs of children families who have experienced trauma; and partner with other Texas and national trauma-informed workgroups and collaboratives.
